Subject: Something to commemorate

Hi Dylan,

Captain Vivian Hewitt a pioneering aviator used to give pleasure flights from Rhyl beach but housed his plane in sheds near the old lifeboat building on the banks of the River Clwyd.

On the 26th April 1912 Vivian took off from the fields in Kinmel Bay and flew 75 miles landing in Dublin, considering the first flight across the channel by Bleriot flight was 25 miles it was quite an accomplishment, sadly it was overshadowed by the Titanic disaster and he didn't get the recognition he deserved.

I would be nice if we could look at getting a sculpture of plaque to commemorate the local aviators achievements.

Regards,

Nigel.
